Thought for this week

Jesus' life and teaching showed extravagant forgiveness and grace, especially to those on the margins – the outcasts, sinners, and broken, who found in him welcome rather than condemnation. From tough miners weeping at John Wesley's preaching in the open air to Jean Valjean's transformation in Les Misérables, history and story alike show how mercy can change lives. The God Jesus reveals is not one of punishment but of relentless seeking love, like the shepherd in the rain or the father who runs to embrace his prodigal son. If only we could powerfully communicate this grace afresh today!

Andrew Shipton
